SUGGESTS GLENDALE SITE FOR UNIVERSITY BRANCH AT FEDERAL BANK DINNER

Marco H. Hellman, Speaker at Meeting Of Stockholders Of New Institution, Says City Ideal for Education Plant

THE matter of establishing in Glendale the Southern Branch, University of California, now located in Los Angeles, was brought before last night's banquet of the stockholders of the newly organized Federal Commercial and Savings Bank by Marco H. Hellman, prominent southwest banker, who was the principal speaker of the occasion.

Mr. Hellman, who heads the chain of banks bearing his name, and is an officer and director of many Los Angeles institutions, broached his subject by stating that some years ago, while he was in the state offices at Sacramento, conferring with the governor, the matter was first informally discussed, being felt that with a co-educational branch in the south and men's branch in the north, the University of California could better serve its purpose in the state.

For some reason the branch was not located in Glendale at that time, Mr. Hellman pointed out, but stated that it would still be a very desirable place to establish it, owing to the central location enjoyed by this city, serving, as it does, to form the hub of a wheel whose various spokes run directly to the San Fernando valley, Hollywood, Pasadena and Los Angeles.

Idea Is Indorsed
Several speakers agreed with Mr. Hellman the idea was a good one, and it was pointed out that despite the rapid growth of Glendale, available ground could be had for such an institution.

The result is, in the opinion of the great majority of those present, an idea of incalculable value to this city has been launched by Mr. Hellman, an idea that should at once be fostered and advanced.

Last night's dinner of the stockholders of the Federal Commercial & Savings bank opened with the singing of "America." Following the dinner, Charles C. Cooper, president of the new institution, introduced Owen C. Emery, a stockholder and legal counsel, who became chairman of the ensuing program.

In responding to the stockholders and their wives and guests, Mr. Emery referred to them as a "happy family," stressing the fact that this bank is locally owned and controlled, and not affiliated with any Los Angeles institution.

L. M. Maynard, an expert on finance, one of the officials of the City National bank of Los Angeles, then spoke on "The Value of Stockholders' Co-operation," after which Prof. H. A. Amiaux rendered an instrumental solo.

M. H. Hellman Speaker
Marco H. Hellman then delivered an address on "The Progress and Growth of Los Angeles and Surrounding Communities," in the following words:

"Progress has moved more rapidly in Los Angeles and the communities which surround it in the last ten years than in any other section of America. Growth during this decade has been truly wonderful—so much so that it has astonished the outside world. What has happened and what will continue to happen for an indefinite period, in growth of population, building construction, subdivision enterprise, industrial and mercantile expansion, in the fields of banking and commerce and in social and cultural advancement, makes a story so tremendous in scope that the pioneer citizen stands amazed at the

New President's Wife Keeps His Socks in Repair

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—When time hangs heavy in the presidential suite at the New Willard, the first lady takes up her famous husband's holey socks and darns a while.

The new president is not the sort who wears silk socks and throws them away when a bit of a hole appears. No siree! He wears cotton, and Mrs. Coolidge darns them, heels and toes, till there's nothing left to darn. That's the way they do things in New England. Being "first lady of the republic" hasn't changed her domestic habits in the least.

HARDING WON HEARTS OF HEARERS

W. E. Hewitt Tells Homely Qualities of Executive Who Has Passed On

Intimate revelations of the extreme simplicity and loveliness of the late President Harding are furnished by W. E. Hewitt, 319 Randolph street, who returned yesterday from Vancouver, B. C., where he had been called on account of the illness of his father, T. C. Hewitt, who was seized with sickness during a boat trip north.

W. E. Hewitt had the good fortune to be introduced to President Harding at a banquet given him by the press association of Vancouver, just a few days before he was stricken, and he heard the homely, simple fashion in which he talked to the members of his own profession, advising them that they occupied a position of responsibility to the people of the country just as important as that held by many men in high official positions.

The president talked quietly to the "boys," as he called them, with a wealth of homely metaphor and with an absolute freedom from any official dignity that endeared him to everyone who heard him.

In an extempore speech in Vancouver, President Harding won the hearts of his listeners and made an address that overshadowed in its human qualities every other speech that he made on the trip, according to the newspaper men who had accompanied him from the start of his last journey, and the feelings of the Canadians who were privileged to meet the United States executive.

Mr. Hewitt declares, are of the warmest possible kind, and they mourn in genuine sorrow the passing of Warren G. Harding.

The elder Mr. Hewitt is recovering from his illness, but is at present confined to his room in the St. Paul's hospital at Vancouver, and it is possible that W. E. Hewitt may return there to bring his father back again to Glendale.

COOLIDGE ON STREETS OF CAPITAL IS UNKNOWN

Throws Off Mantle of Magistracy and Joins Mourning People

By GEORGE E. DURNO
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Turning aside from the cares of state, President Coolidge today solemnly awaited the arrival here of the Harding funeral train with its burden of national grief. The president effaced himself, dropped the mantle of magistracy which fell upon him with President Harding's death and as any private citizen joined the multitude waiting at the end of the 3,000 mile "avenue of sorrow."

The heavy lines about his eyes, the twitching of lips, and little acts of nervousness indicated the tension of awaiting the return of his beloved chief—Warren G. Harding. He arose early—at 7 o'clock—breakfasted with Mrs. Coolidge and then while newspapermen and attaches slumbered, wandered out of the temporary White House, accompanied only by a few secret service men, and strolled four blocks through the busiest section of the capital to the business section.

Not Recognized

Thousands of store clerks and government workers en route to their employment, rushed past him, some even forcing him to step aside to prevent a collision. Stopping now and then to stare into store windows, at show displays, the president seemingly gave all thought to the momentous days to come when he will be solely responsible for the ship of state.

Everywhere he saw crepe veiled photographs of President Harding. Now and then, the new president paused to gaze intently at some striking likeness of the dead president. The stroll consumed seventeen minutes, the president returning to his "White House" at 8:12 a. m. On his trip, covering eight city blocks, he had been recognized but once, and then by a professional photographer.

On his return, the president began meeting his callers. Throughout the interviews, however, he refused to discuss any matters of government business except that of the most pressing nature. He absolutely refused to touch upon anything approaching politics or policy.

As it is, the Coolidge administration.

Business Houses Urged to Close During Funeral

OWEN C. EMERY, chairman of the Glendale Credit Men's Association, announces through The Glendale Evening News that it is the desire of this association to pay final tribute to the memory of the late president, Warren G. Harding, and asks that as a part of this tribute all places of business close during the time of the interment services, Friday afternoon, August 10, in Marion, Ohio.

According to latest wire, these services at Marion will start about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, which will be 1 o'clock Glendale time. The services will last about an hour and a half.

It is, therefore, urged by Mr. Emery that the business houses of this city arrange to act accordingly. Should there be any further change in the hour of the final services, it will be announced; and local firms should govern themselves so as to synchronize their closing with the actual time of the solemn event, so that Glendale may bow in mourning with the rest of the nation.

When the question of closing came before the association at its meeting, the impression prevailed the funeral would be held earlier and, therefore, the business men prepared to close in morning hours. However, the indications are now the Glendale business houses will be closed on Friday between 1 and 2:30 p. m.

Stately Mausoleum Planned By Marion Citizens for Dead President

By U. G. UPDEGRAFF
For International News Service

MARION, O., Aug. 7.—A stately mausoleum in Marion cemetery will be the last resting place of President Harding, greatest and best beloved of Marion's sons, it was learned here today. Funeral services will be held here Friday, and the body will be placed in a receiving vault until the mausoleum has been built.

Rev. C. M. Landis, Friday afternoon, will preach the funeral sermon. There will be no military display, nor will any elaborate ceremony be given.

Sister Joins Train

Miss Abigail Harding, a young sister of the president, boarded the funeral train at Willard, Ohio, today to accompany the body to Washington.

Harding, especially requested that all friends of the dead president come to Marion Thursday night and Friday morning and view the body. Funeral services at the Harding home are to be "personal but not private."

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, Mrs. Harding's special physician, was agreeably surprised to find the late president's wife bearing up so well under the strain.

The body will lie in state at the residence of Dr. George T. Harding from about 2 p. m. until 10 p. m. Thursday, August 9, during which time an opportunity will be given for all friends who so desire to pay their final respects, according to an official statement given out by Colonel Frank P. Lahn, representing President Coolidge in charge of Marion funeral arrangements.

MAY BE MIDNIGHT WHEN BODY OF LATE PRESIDENT IS TAKEN INTO CAPITAL

Caravan Passes Mile After Mile Of Silent People Paying Tribute to Dead Leader; Mrs. Harding Orders Slower Running

BULLETIN!

BOARD HARDING FUNERAL TRAIN, WHEELING, JCT., Pa., Aug. 7.—The train bearing President Harding's body will not arrive at the capital before midnight. This appeared virtually certain here at 1 o'clock this afternoon after an entire forenoon of barely crawling through the populace mill and factory section of southeastern Pennsylvania, where dense crowds lined the Baltimore & Ohio's right-of-way on either side to silently watch the train pass.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

BOARD HARDING FUNERAL TRAIN, ELWOOD CITY, Pa., Aug. 7.—Through the populous regions of Pennsylvania, the funeral train bearing the late President Harding's body, moved slowly today, due to the throngs on the outskirts of the track. At noon railroad officials had abandoned hope entirely of getting into Washington before 10 o'clock, and are centering their efforts upon adhering to that liberal schedule.

It was even predicted that it might be midnight before the body of the president would be borne into the national capital. The train passed mile after mile of people. At some points, the gatherings were large—at others they were strung in thin lines for mile after mile along the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's right of way. It was one continuous picture of silent, uncovered men, women and children.

Further time was lost as the train progressed across Pennsylvania at the slow speed.

Dr. Carl Sawyer and Dr. Harding, Jr., the late president's brother, boarded the train in Illinois yesterday and dropped off today and returned to Marion to make final arrangements for the service there.

A great wave of American reverence for a dead leader rose up today to retard the progress of the funeral train toward the national capital.

The carefully-prepared schedule calling for the train's arrival in Washington early this afternoon has been abandoned. It has been shattered by the overpowering insistence of the saddened people that they be permitted to express their sorrow in the only way possible, by standing silent and sorrowful as the remains of the late president moved slowly by them.

People Running Train

In a sense it is the reverent people who are running this train today—not the railroad officials. When the crowds are great the train runs at a snail's pace, or stops; when the people are few, the train runs faster. The situation is inevitable, Mrs. Harding believes, despite her earnest desire to get back to the capital.

Mrs. Harding issued instructions that the silent throngs are not to be disappointed—even if the train does not reach Washington until late tonight.

Early today as the train swung through President Harding's home state of Ohio, the railroad officials estimated they could make Washington between 5 and 6 o'clock this evening. But even then they shook their heads. It may be earlier, it may be later. It is, they said, in the hands of the people of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland.

To this extent at least, a saddened people have claimed the dead president as their own. Those of the president's own party particularly were not to be denied today. They who had honored him so signally in life were no less concerned that he should in death receive that honor befitting one of Ohio's sons who had fought the good fight and died in his country's service.

Shout Mute Respect
Through the long night and early day as the train alternately crawled and flew across the state, Ohio came from its factories and its farms, from its offices and shops, to stand quiet and uncovered beside the tracks over which one of Ohio's most noted sons was being borne back to rest for a time where two great Ohioans, Garfield and McKinley, have rested under the great dome of the capitol. The train crossed into Ohio from Indiana shortly after midnight, and from then on until early day, crowds were to be seen at every station, varying in size, according to the place, but never varying in their mute

WASHINGTON STEEPED IN SORROW

Mourning Thousands Grieve As Dead Chieftain Is Brought Home

By KENNETH W. CLARKE
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The national capital awaited its honored dead today. Less than two months ago, June 20, President and Mrs. Harding, accompanied by a distinguished party of government officials, rode down Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the Union station, to start the long journey to the West and Alaska.

Thousands of happy, eager persons cheered them as the presidential special departed. President Harding was in robust health and, having recovered sufficiently from a long serious illness to permit her to take the trip, Mrs. Harding was radiant with happiness. They stood on the rear platform of the private car, "Sunshine," looking back at the White House, to the Union station, to start the long journey to the West and Alaska.

Weighted With Sorrow

Today, along the same Pennsylvania avenue, shielded in the black of early morning, thousands stood with bared heads, paying respect to the return of President Harding, twenty-ninth president of the United States.

From the highest officialdom to those in the lowest walks of life, everyone was steeped in grief, weighted with deepest sorrow.

All was silent—silent with the respect that is shown to a dead leader. Loving hands laid down the work of government to pay tribute to the memory of the man who, for more than two years had guided the ship of state in momentous and troublous times. The government, national and local, came to a complete halt. Federal machinery will be stayed until the body of the president is lowered into the grave.

President Coolidge ordered that. Flags hung at half mast. Guns boomed a mourning salute. Draperies fluttered from every building along the line of the procession.

Official Delegation
From Union station, where cavalry, artillery and infantry, with colors draped, formed a guard of honor to where the capitol, with its massive dome towering sorrowfully, could be seen in the distance, where funeral corteges have passed, since Washington became the nation's capital; to the White House, lonely in its setting of a spacious green lawn—all was sadness. In the official delegation, in addition to President Coolidge, were members of the cabinet, Chief Justice Taft, a former president, and Senator Cummins of Iowa, president pro tem of the Senate. Speaker of the House Gillette was designated to act as representative of the lower house of Congress. The party will escort the mortal remains of the late president to his old home in the White House.

Protection For Avenue Sought
G. H. Randall Asks Council To Guard Improvement From Damage
The City Council last night heard several requests from G. H. Randall of 1146 Western avenue for the improvement and protection of Western avenue which were referred to the city engineering department.

Admission was made by Mr. Randall that property owners in his vicinity erred in approving specifications for an oil street. He said that much of the gravel had been improperly applied and that the rest of it had been washed into the side streets.

The paving is now in a deplorable condition, according to Mr. Randall, and has both deep and wide ruts largely because of the frequent passage of heavily laden trucks. He said that the posting of signs warning truck drivers to keep off seemed to be disregarded. He said that the police department responded to calls quite promptly whenever an officer was available but that the trucks usually were gone before an officer could get there.

PROSPERITY OF
SOUTHLAND TOLDNorthern Editor Comments on Development Seen in
L. A. District

Mrs. S. J. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard has presented The Glendale Evening News with a copy of an editorial from the Sprague, Wash., Advocate, which seems to have an enlightened view of this rapidly developing section of the country. It is interesting to see what others see in us, especially those far enough away not to be biased by the local view of San Francisco. Here is the article:

If one should be asked what city in all the world is attracting the attention of the most prospective settlers today it would be safe to say Los Angeles, California. If one should be asked where the greatest prosperity in all the world is to be found today it would be safe to say in the Los Angeles district. It would be hard for most people to gain any idea from a pen picture of what is going on in Los Angeles or to believe the stories of the activities there unless they saw them with their own eyes. But a little direct investigation is quite convincing.

Lots of Development
The facts are that new tracts of building sites are being opened up there daily and as sure as they are put on the market they are disposed of and built up. Entire blocks of business houses have been built and opened during the last six months. Large subdivisions have been laid out, water, light, gas and sewer systems installed and the whole built up solid with fine residences surrounded by lawns and ornamental shrubbery and all in the space of only a year or two. Industries of every description are springing up like mushrooms and new people and new capital are arriving by every boat and every train and by a constant caravan of autos.

Everybody seems to be doing well, money is plentiful, work is plentiful and everybody says that times are good and opportunities plentiful. As an indication of the prosperity it can be stated that the Los Angeles district pays about one-twentieth of all the amusement tax in the United States according to the latest reports.

Causes of Growth
The causes of all the prosperity are so varied and manifold that it would require columns to enumerate them, but geographic and climatic are chief and to these may be added the good fortune of having as a nucleus a variety of industries and a combination of population that will result in attracting more people, more genius, more capital and, consequently, more advantages. The prosperity is not spasmodic or temporary. The whole country is helping to make Los Angeles today, and this in spite of the fact that many sections of it are far from prosperous themselves. When prosperity becomes more general Los Angeles will gain, not lose.

NAME DELEGATES
TO LEAGUE MEETCity Officials Will Attend
Annual Convention of Municipalities

The City Council last night appointed Councilman Sam Davis, Councilman W. A. Horn, City Manager W. H. Reeves, City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy and City Attorney Ray L. Morrow to represent Glendale in Coronado, September 10 to 14, at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the League of California Municipalities.

Frank C. Merritt of Oakland, president of the organization, writes as follows in regard to the approaching convention:

"If possible, delegates should be sent to each section of the league, to the end that the information and experience of sister cities be provided to the fullest extent. The very important topics of zoning, street parking, licensing, building and paving will be among the subjects of present interest to be discussed.

"The people of Coronado are making elaborate preparations for the occasion, in order that it may not only be enjoyable for those who attend, but also result in much good to the cause of better municipal government. Let us show our appreciation of their efforts by making this the biggest convention in the history of the league."

MINOR OPERATION

A minor operation was performed upon Garner Cox of 755 Waltonia drive, Montrose, this morning at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Miss Pearl Barriack of 341 West Maple street was taken to the Glendale Research Hospital last night because of illness.

Interested in Realty Board work, and has been a real constructive force in the Los Angeles Board, will speak on the subject of "The Innocent Buyer," and those who have heard Mr. Brent speak on this subject say his talk is well worth hearing. Salesmen of all offices are being given a special invitation to attend this meeting, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

This is the first of a series of special programs which is being arranged for the balance of August and the first half of September. Other topics which will be discussed at later meetings are, How to Determine the Rental Value of Business Property, Zoning, Parks and Highways and Ninety-nine Year Leases.

COMMENT
That's AllTriumphant in Death.
President Had Hard Row.
Coolidge Man of the Hour.
More Prosperity Ahead.

By Gil A. Cowan

TRIUMPHANT in death, the silent crowds pay homage to the late President as the funeral train travels through the East, according to yesterday's dispatches.

And today the body will have reached its destination, ready for the services of state and with the closing of a week Warren G. Harding will be a national memory.

His death, however, creates the feeling that presidential power should either be decentralized or that the executive not be hampered by any blubbery bloc of congressmen.

As it stands today the President of these United States is the official "goat", if the slang term may be pardoned. In the first place, he must be named by an important class of nomination in party convention.

Fortunately for President Coolidge he can speak his own mind. As a second consideration, the duly elected president must accept a party platform which may or may not be born of malice and deceit, irrespective of sweet sounding words. The nation's memory is bound to a large extent to the planks placed by certain political groups.

And, when he finally takes office, what then? The elected president learns that he must approve the action of his less titled assistants, and that he is surrounded by wolves. For in the cabinet we find the hired men of the interests who are rushed upon the executive. They must size up to "big business standards" or be like Newton D. Baker of the Wilson cabinet, who was referred to, "as secretary of war, he is a good gardener."

President Harding was most unfortunately afflicted. He had a rock-ribbed party fearful of its progressive element, trying to ride a fence in order to regain national leadership. It succeeded and left a leader in a predicament.

Then there was Daugherty and New and Hoover and Hughes, not to mention several thousand lame ducks, to care for. That alone was a task to which one man might have given all of his time in telling the esteemed office seekers and job holders how little the public thinks of them.

The Congress of the United States also proceeded to "boot the ball". Prohibition enforcement took on international complications. The failure of the League of Nations made some substitute, such as a world court, more or less desirable. And so it went.

On every hand the President heard of strife and he tried to play the part of the conciliator. As Samuel G. Blythe well said in the article published in the Saturday Evening Post, which proved to be an obituary, "The President was a calm man". Well did he realize it was necessary.

But now for a change. Without a doubt Calvin Coolidge will become the man of the hour. Certain interests would have him think he is reactionary in an effort to drive him toward greater progressivism. Yet for a fact he was named to the vice-presidency because of his ability to step out from behind the curtain and play the part of the conciliator.

President Coolidge is apt to make certain politicians relinquish their grip on certain government departments. He is likely inclined to tell the special interests where to take their troubles and we might suggest Death Valley as that place.

And there is no question but what he will listen to the voice of the people, for he feels plebeian to a degree. Incidentally, he is a man who could never have gained the office except through conquest and that has brought forth some of our best and worst presidents.

No tears will be shed in central California should Attorney-General Harry Daugherty resign. Indeed, he is looked upon by the raisin growers as one of the most virulent politicians one who is willing to bankrupt the grape men for the benefit of private packers.

If we recollect it took the combined effort of the American Legion and public opinion to bring about any war fraud prosecutions. And the results were far from satisfactory, several spies and communists having been accomplished.

So much for so much. Glendale is going to grow like it never grew before. Conditions are ripe for a most prosperous year.

The death of President Harding will awaken a national consciousness to duty. And in that spirit things will move ahead apace.

Will you be ready for a "real boom" when it comes? What we see today is only a reflection of the tomorrow.

Experts estimate California's population in the next generation will reach 10,000,000. Dreamers declare it should be 30,000,000. Dreamers are always right.

And, if so many people insist on coming here, Glendale must have homes and factories and facilities for accommodating several hundred thousand people in these Verdugo hills.

plete this work. We have been delayed in doing this work owing to our inability to get materials. "Fifty per cent of the conduit has already been installed but we have not yet received the glassware which was ordered from East. We have been informed by the manufacturers that the standards are ready for delivery and, as soon as the glassware is received, we will rush the job through to completion."

WANT CROSSINGS
OVER P. E. TRACKSFoothill Improvement Assn.
Seeks Protection for School Children

The present is an inopportune time to establish crossings over the Pacific Electric at Ruberta and Winchester avenues, according to a decision reached last night by the City Council.

The Foothill Improvement Association, through its secretary, Mrs. M. B. Buckman of 1141 Higginson street, brought up the subject through the following communication:

"At a recent meeting of the Foothill Improvement Association the secretary was instructed to write the state railroad commissioner in regard to street railway crossings over the Pacific Electric right of way near the Grand View school."

"The Grand View School is located on Fifth street, Ruberta on the east, Justin on the west and Fourth street or Monterey road on the south adjoining the Pacific Electric right of way. At the present time there is no legal crossing between Western avenue and Senorita station, a distance of four long blocks. There were approximately 200 children attending the Grand View school at the close of school, from the first to the sixth grades only. Next year the kindergarten will be added. Many of the children must cross the Pacific Electric tracks. The teachers were asked to keep the children off the right of way. It is hard to make children understand that they must go four blocks to a legal crossing when they could get there sooner by going straight across to the school.

Speed of Trains
"This organization has already taken the matter up with the freight traffic department of the terrific speed with which the morning mail and freight cars pass the school about the time the little hopefuls are gathering on the school ground.

"This Foothill Improvement Association has already taken the matter up with the freight traffic department of the terrific speed with which the morning mail and freight cars pass the school about the time the little hopefuls are gathering on the school ground.

"We already have an application prepared under your orders for a crossing at Justin avenue and pending the hearing on that crossing, I would not think it advisable to ask for the crossings at Ruberta avenue and Winchester avenue, which are the streets that are only 340 feet from Justin avenue.

"If we are fortunate in securing a crossing at Justin avenue, I think there will be a better time to ask for crossings at Winchester and Ruberta avenue."

MEMORIAL FOR
DEAD PRESIDENTAuxiliary to Local Legion
Offers Tribute Behalf
Warren G. Harding

The memory of the dead president, Warren G. Harding, was respected last night at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Glendale American Legion post, in the Legion hall on East Broadway, when the members put aside business affairs and held a memorial service.

A memorial poem, "His Monument" by Myra Nye was read, and the late president's favorite hymn "Lead Kindly Light" was sung by the choir.

Later a short business session was held for selecting Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward as the third delegate from the Auxiliary to the state convention beginning August 27 at Eureka. Other delegates will be Mrs. Margaret Kaeding and Mrs. James McBryde.

Plan to Contribute
It was also decided that the Auxiliary will contribute to the fund being raised by the national Auxiliary for the upkeep of American soldiers' graves overseas. The Glendale Auxiliary has been given a quota of $12 and the members are confident of surpassing this amount.

Mrs. Kaeding and Mrs. Eugene Gilliland are to go to Long Beach Saturday to attend a meeting of the county council. In addition to representing the Auxiliary Mrs. Gilliland will also represent the Tuesday Afternoon club as chairman of affairs of ex-service men. All Auxiliary members are privileged to attend. There will be reduced rates to the beach city of the day.

The Auxiliary is to hold a food sale Saturday morning, August 18 at 142 South Brand boulevard.

Atomic Collision Is

LONDON, Aug. 7.—After taking 21,000 photographs, W. D. Harkiss and R. W. Ryan, two British scientists, report that they have succeeded in obtaining a photograph of the atom in collision.

The photograph was obtained by using Alpha particles from thorium, and they secured two views, taken from directions perpendicular to each other, of a collision between one of these particles and the nucleus of an atom of air.

The photograph shows the original track splitting into three branches at the point of the collision, which is exactly the characteristic that is expected if the atom disintegrates.

tration will be conducted along the policies laid down by President Harding, for some time to come. Rumors meanwhile swirl back and forth involving cabinet changes. In the circles nearest the president, it is believed most of the Harding cabinet will resign eventually. It is absolutely certain however, that there will be no changes for weeks to come.

With politics and administration problems forgotten, the new executive prepared himself for the ordeal of meeting the funeral train. Ties much stronger than political affiliation had bound the men together. A mutual deep affection existed. Both of sturdy stock, they held the same aspirations. Both worked untiringly and unsparringly for perpetration of the ideals upon which the United States was founded.

As President Coolidge is following the flag-draped caisson up Pennsylvania Avenue, a similar drama will be enacted at the White House. There Grace Coolidge, new first lady of the land, will be waiting to offer her sympathy and aid to Mrs. Harding. Here a deep and lasting affection abides.

WEEK EXTENSION
OF WATER MAINSTropico Potteries Would Hook Up to City Pipes for Fire Protection

The Tropico Potteries request permission to extend the six-inch water main south, on Los Feliz road to its plant to provide fire protection was looked upon with favor last night by the city council. The matter was laid on the table for further consideration.

E. M. Davids, secretary of the Tropico Potteries, wrote the following letter in regard to the subject:

"Inasmuch as there are no large mains in the neighborhood of our property coming from the Los Angeles water department, our plant is now almost entirely without fire protection.

"We have learned that there is a six-inch high-pressure water main extending in a westerly direction on Los Feliz road to the corner of the Bentley Lumber company's property. We would greatly appreciate receiving permission from your honorable council to run the line from the end of existing main across the southern Pacific tracks to our property. From the corner of our property we would like to lay a six-inch main along the westerly side of our plant which could be provided with a number of fire plugs.

Fire Protection Only
"We are provided with a well from which we pump water for use in our plant and are asking permission to connect with your water system with the definite understanding that we will not use water from Glendale for any other purpose than fire protection.

"In case you see fit to grant us such permission we would like to have you give us an estimate of the probable cost of continuing the main on Los Feliz road across the right-of-way of the Southern Pacific Railroad company and on to the corner of our property."

City Manager W. H. Reeves stated this morning that the line on Los Feliz road extends to within about 100 feet of the city limits. He is of the opinion that it can be extended without tearing up Los Feliz road.

At least the Firpo-Dempsey match offers some uncertainties that neither the Carpenter nor Gibbons affairs were able to contribute. Furthermore, there will doubtless be many who will take a flyer on the South American to win although the odds undoubtedly will be in favor of the champion. Firpo still is considered too immature to the ring to cope with the experience of Dempsey.

Since Babe Ruth has fallen far behind his home run record we have heard less in the last couple of years from golfers who claimed that he used their "follow through" on all his strokes. In 1921 when Babe established his record that was all we heard and golfers based his entire success on the adaptation by Ruth of their stroke. Presumably, for some reason, Ruth has discarded the "follow through" to his own detriment.

Intimate details about celebrities are interesting to the public. By looking at a reproduction of a photograph of the signing of terms for the match between Firpo and Dempsey we move that Mr. Tex Rickard, promoter, does business with his hat on, and Mr. Jack Kearns, manager for the champions, removes his lid. These important details may have escaped the observation of some of the fans and it is right they should be reminded of them.

It is figured that from $300,000 to $400,000 will be needed to finance the American Olympic Games team for 1925. Wonder what folks interested in sports of fifty years ago, or more, would have thought of it? Times certainly change.

A good and a bad prophet. Just before the fight the following statements were recorded: CRIQUI—"I will win by a knockout." DUNDEE—"I will not say what round I will stop him in."

There have been just as many bad guesses made by principals in a prize fight as there have been correct ones. Records of statements made in the past just before a fight shows that exactly fifty per cent were wrong as to the outcome and fifty per cent right.

McGraw Fears For Pitching, Trade For Gowdy Indicates

By NORMAN E. BROWN
As John McGraw's champion Giants plunge along in the lead in the National league race the portly owner is worried about his pitching staff. That is indicated by his latest move—the acquisition of Lank Hank Gowdy, veteran catcher of the Braves.

For it was Hank McGraw wanted when he cooked up the deal with the Hub team whereby Gowdy and a young hurler, Watson, moved to Gotham and Jess Barnes and Earl Smith, Giant battery, moved to Beantown. That McGraw wanted Gowdy badly is indicated by the fact that he allowed Barnes a capable pitcher when he is right, and Earl Smith, a good young catcher, to depart. Gowdy will devote most of his time with the Giant team to coaching the pitchers—especially the younger ones. To date, the three pitchers who have been carrying the Giants along are Art Nehf, John Scott and Hugh Quillan, all three of them veterans. The youngsters have done little. Jess Barnes had won a few games when he departed. Young Bill Ryan, who gave great promise last fall, has won a couple of games. So has Claude Jonnard. Bentley has not lived up to expectations. Latest averages put him in the losing column. Clinton, who appeared to have the stuff last spring, has won only one game. Virgil Barnes has been lost to the team because of an operation.

McGraw hopes and believes that Gowdy can get more out of these young hurlers. At least one of them must hit a good stride, if the Giants are to have fair sailing. An accident to one of the three vets would cripple the team overnight, as things are now.

It may be that Gowdy can turn Watson into a regular for McGraw. The young man had not earned his salt with the Braves, but the Braves and Giants are two different ball clubs. Results will tell.

Bill for Decoration Of City Is Settled

The city council last night appropriated $125 as its share of the expense of decorating the streets and building and ornamental arch at the city limits on Los Feliz road in anticipation of the visit of late President Warren G. Harding. The contract with the Le-Co company of Los Angeles provided for the expenditure of $1000, but contained a clause that compensation should be made for only such work performed and that the contract might be cancelled in an emergency.

Although the original bill submitted by this company is reported to have been $750, a settlement was reached for $250. Half of this sum is being paid by the city administration and the balance will be divided between the Credit Association and the Chamber of Commerce.

Thief Confesses to Series of Burglaries

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—"Cap, I'm a burglar. I robbed Nick Asaff's store up on Tremont street twice and jimmied a place on Huntington avenue. I got some cigars, some cigarettes and a few bucks."

This statement was made to Captain Herbert Goodwin at police headquarters by a neatly dressed stranger who had walked into the police station.

"Well," said the captain, "I'm glad to see you. I've got a nice cool cell ready."

The self-confessed burglar gave the name of George Wagner and said he had no home.

Detectives tried in vain to learn the reason for the confession.

Unique Boycott Wins For Russian Strikers

CHITA, Russia, Aug. 7.—Something new in the strike line has been demonstrated here.

Cafe workers went on strike and then proceeded to monopolize tables in the cafes where they had been employed, spending five and six hours at a table over one glass of tea. This method shortly brought the cafe managers to terms.

A minor operation was performed upon Mrs. E. E. Poggi of 211 East Lomita avenue this morning at the Glendale Sanatorium and Hospital.

Court Is Asked for Leg or Foot Ruling

CANTON, O., Aug. 7.—Where does the foot end and the leg begin? Common pleas court here has been asked to decide the question. Charles Kruschenske was awarded compensation by the State Industrial Commission for the loss of a foot in a mine accident. The amputation was made nine inches below the knee. The miner claims he lost a leg. The Industrial Commission thought he lost a foot. So the court will decide.

I'd rather see a hermit hide beneath the bushes. Than he who won his brother's chance by forging onward crushes.

C. C. COOPER, President

Let's Get Our Heads Together, Folks

You, the residents of Glendale and vicinity, you in whose bosom still burns the spark of civic pride, you are the red blood corpuscles that keep good health in the commercial and social life of this community.

Your vision and initiative have made Glendale what it is today. Your growth and success are in a large measure interwoven with the growth and success of Glendale, and her institutions. As you have produced wealth at a profit to yourself, you have had an opportunity to increase values in this district. Eliminate your profits, or even forget the importance of retaining a sufficient portion of those profits within institutions that will keep those funds active for the commercial and industrial interests and improvement of Glendale, and what have you left? Merely a lifeless shell—for the maturity of a locality soon stops when the use of the money accumulations of its people is not available, under the law, for local use in the creation of new wealth, instead of being entirely devoted to the further increase of wealth already existing.

The officers and directors of the Federal Commercial and Savings Bank of Glendale appreciate the benefits that will come to every individual and interest in this community through cooperation. We want you to keep in mind that this is purely a Glendale bank—a bank of the people and for the people, and an institution that will get its growth and progress from furthering the growth and progress of its customers. We shall recognize a loyalty to our depositors that will grow stronger as the years of association roll by—a loyalty that will express itself in an ever active effort to nourish and conserve their interests in every possible way.

Perhaps you will wish to do business with a bank whose activities are governed by such a spirit of service—an institution that has purposely prepared itself to be much more to its customers than merely a custodian of their money and securities.

If this should be the case, the opening of this bank on August 11th will be of interest to you. You will want to get one of the beautiful and artistic silver Pencils, which will be given to all first day depositors and thus be identified for all time with the establishment of this strong financial institution—that is Glendale owned.

Be a First Day Depositor, and your artistic and useful silver pencil will always remind you that you were one of its First Day Depositors, and entitled to special consideration.

Memorial Services Planned For Late Executive to Stress Simplicity

Following the lead taken by the American Legion, post 250, Tujunga will pay memorial tribute to the man for whom the whole nation mourns, the late president, Warren Gamaliel Harding. Plans have been made to hold services in Legion hall in his memory during the hour that the funeral services are being held at Marion. The services will be short and simple, as in accordance with Mrs. Harding's wishes for simplicity in the rites at Washington. All organizations of the community will take part in the service.

The Legion has asked that all business houses close for half the day as a mark of respect for the president's memory. Every effort will be made to make the observance a fitting tribute to a leader mourned by all. The flag is displayed at half mast at the Legion club house and will remain so until after the last rite at Marion on Friday. Pictures of the late chief executive are draped in somber crepe and flags carry the narrow band of black as mute evidence of the loss felt by the people.

Mrs. Harding Fourth White House Widow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Florence Harding, by the death of her beloved husband, has become the fourth White House widow living today. The other women who, like Mrs. Harding, were once the "first lady of the land," are Mrs. Frances Cleveland Preston, widow of Grover Cleveland; Mrs. Mary Scott Lord Harrison, widow of Benjamin Harrison; and Mrs. Edith Kermit Carrow Roosevelt, widow of Theodore Roosevelt.

Mrs. Preston, who married President Cleveland while he was in office, is the only "White House bride" of the quartette. She married Thomas J. Preston, Princeton professor, five years after the former president died.

Mrs. Preston lives in New York city, while Mrs. Roosevelt occupies the Roosevelt estate at Oyster Bay, New York.

Name Delegation to Meet Funeral Train

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—President Coolidge, members of the cabinet, Chief Justice Taft and Senator Cummins of Iowa, president pro tem. of the senate, will form the official delegation from the government which will meet the Harding funeral train when it arrives in Washington this afternoon. It was announced at the temporary "White House." This delegation and a military escort will accompany the remains to the White House, where the body will rest in the East Room until Wednesday morning.

The military guard of honor will consist of the Marine Band, a squadron of picked cavalry and a battery of field artillery. A single artillery caisson will be used to carry the late president's body.

Lead eating beetles which penetrate the metallic covering of the fuse and eat away the lead, often cause the fuse to blow out on the electric light and power lines in California.

Grant Permission to Extend Bus Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The Motor Transit Company has been authorized by the State Railway Commission to extend its present operative rights between Los Angeles and San Diego to include service between Long Beach, Wilmington and San Pedro, and also to serve Seal Beach and intermediate points.

Sierras Power Co. To Sell $207,100 in Bonds

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The Southern Sierras Power Company has applied to the Railroad Commission for authority to issue and sell $207,100 par value first and refunding mortgage series "B" gold bonds, the same being additional to the issue of $7,474,600 of bonds heretofore authorized by the commission.

THE GLENDALE

"The Heart of Wetona" features Norma Talmadge in one of her favorite roles, and this revival will be welcomed by the many who remember her in the part of the beautiful Indian girl wronged by a pretending lover, who ultimately finds love and happiness with the man who protects her and assumes the wrong by marrying her.

Miss Talmadge is supported in this strong story by Thomas Meighan and a notable cast including Gladden James. The story is from the pen of George Scarborough, who originally wrote it for the stage, as a starring vehicle for Lenore Ulric, produced by David Belasco.

The dramatic part of the story comes when Wetona, reared by white people, returns to her father, Quannah, who designates for her a holy rite reserved for virgins—whereupon Wetona confesses she has been wronged by a white man and is unfit.

THE GATEWAY

"Alice Adams" shows at the Gateway Theatre for the last times tonight. With Booth Tarkington for author, King Vidor as the director and his charming wife, Florence Vidor, in the role of Alice, this picture has nothing to fear for its success.

The story is of a girl at once so foolish and so brave as to attempt the great American game of bluff, in order to "keep up with the Joneses." This disrupts her family, just as it did in "The Flirt," but in the end Alice comes to realize that the home circle is more sacred than any pretenses.

The Habit of Saving

There is an old fable telling how strong a habit can become. A father wished to prove the point to his sons, so he took a stick, and breaking it, said, "A single act is like this stick; its impress on you can be as easily broken."

"A bunch of sticks, however, is not so easily broken," and he illustrated by vainly endeavoring to break them.

"Habit," he concluded, "is like these sticks. It is a succession of acts that, taken together, are unbreakable. Form good habits."

Saving is a habit. The first deposit corresponds to the single stick. It must be followed by other deposits, which, if persistently made, will result in a habit of saving that cannot be broken.

Commence saving now and save systematically.

respect for President Harding. Fostoria, Defiance, Deshler, Fostoria, Willard, Lodi, Akron, Ravenna and say on down to Youngstown, near the Pennsylvania line, they came and went as the night progressed.

At Fostoria and Tiffin, the remains of the president were only a little way north from grieving Marion, where on Friday they will be laid away with all the simplicity and lack of ostentation that his simple, kindly heart could have wished.

First in History
Never in the history of America has there been a journey comparable to this caravan of sorrow that for four days has wended its way across the continent. Quite possibly there will never be one again. There have been crowds such as never before have been witnessed in the country. No one has tried, no one could estimate with any degree of accuracy the numbers of people who left their work and their homes to do him reverence. They have been endless, enormous and well high inconceivable in their numbers and their respect. They brought bouquets of every bloom known to the horticulturist. The flowers, long since, have choked to overflowing, the narrow space in the rear car where lies the metal casket. And today another car was filled completely. At every stop, there have been placed aboard, bountiful, fragrant blooms symbolic and mutely expressive of a community sorrow, which could only find its outlet in offerings such as these.

Words would not express this community sorrow which extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, even if words had been appropriate, or had there been time to listen to them; always it was flowers, draped colors, and silent astory higher up, but he could do nothing but notify his superior. On being arrested, the young man seemed indifferent and cynical to an amazing degree. He refused to give any information. Indignation against him is great.

ELKS WILL TOOT GLENDALE'S HORN

City Council Donates $500 For Band's Expenses to Eureka Convention

The city council last night appropriated $500 to send the Glendale Elks' band to Eureka, September 19 to 22, inclusive, to attend the annual state convention of the B. P. O. E.

Exalted Ruler James A. Appfel of 347 North Maryland avenue and other officers are making plans to attend this convention. Glendale will be allowed thirty-two delegates. Several thousand delegates are expected to be in attendance. Plans are now being made to charter a special train to take the delegates from Pasadena and Glendale.

The local Elks' band consists of thirty-five musicians. It is led by R. E. Kenney of Los Angeles. C. Maurice Burke of 616 East Lomita avenue is its business manager.

Willis M. Kimball, secretary of the local lodge, regards sending the band to the convention as an excellent means of "tooting Glendale's horn."

room, where the remains of the martyred presidents, Lincoln and McKinley, rested, only Mrs. Harding, President and Mrs. Coolidge, and a few personal friends, will be permitted in the White House. A wreath will be placed on the bier by the widow, one by the president and the first lady, one for the supreme court by Taft, one for Congress by Cummins and Gillette. Flowers sent to Mrs. Harding by intimate acquaintances will be received at the mansion.

Pay Final Tribute
Tomorrow morning, at a state funeral in the capitol, the national officials will pay final tribute to the late president. The body will be accompanied from Washington by an impressive funeral procession.

At 6 o'clock the body will be carried to the same special train on which Mr. Harding traveled to the West and on which his lifeless body was returned, and taken to Marion, Ohio, the family home, for burial Friday afternoon.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge and invited government officials will leave for Marion on another special train Thursday night, arriving Friday morning, and returning shortly after the burial.

FISH AND SUNBURN

Ira B. Carlock, haberdasher of 135 1/2 South Brand boulevard, is back on the job again after a week of fishing and bathing at Santa Monica. Incidentally, he got his money's worth of sunburn, also a few fish.

Paints and varnishes produced at about half the cost of those now on the market are made by process which does not require oil or shellac as a mixing body, according to the inventor.

STOCKHOLDERS OF NEW BANK MEET

Marco H. Hellman Tells of Southland's Big Growth; Sees Fine Future

changed complexion of his community.

Opportunity Here

"The remarkable growth of Glendale, which strikingly illustrates the opportunity open to the homeseeker and investor in this section of Southern California, has no parallel as far as records show, anywhere in the country. And as a reflection of what is possible in community development when backed by co-operative measures and progressive public spirit, it speaks volumes for those who have been identified with Glendale's astonishing progress."

"It is a fact borne out by U. S. Government records that in percentage of increase in population Glendale leads America in communities of its class. In the decade which ended in 1920, Los Angeles gained nearly 100 per cent in population, while Glendale gained almost 400 per cent. This is more astonishing when it is realized that in 1887 Glendale experienced its first real estate boom." This was the outgrowth of the establishment of its first so-called "motor railroad" (as the newspapers of that day described it) connection with Los Angeles. Glendale in that day did its banking business through Los Angeles, and its population was not above 1200. Today it has more than 6,000 attractive homes, occupied largely by their owners; its bank number ten, with approximate resources of $80,000,000, and its population is around 35,000. There is ample ground for the belief that by 1926 Glendale will have 50,000 residents.

Sees Great Changes

"Moreover, in the light of the building construction now going on, it is easy to foresee even greater changes in the physical progress of Glendale in the next ten years. Records show that the community's building permits for 1921 reached a total of $5,099,201, and throughout the following year permits were issued at the rate of approximately $400,000 a month. In the first ten weeks of 1922 construction permits amounted to $918,122. This included business structures and homes of a character to make Glendale notable in Southern California.

"Inasmuch as Glendale's growth in the future is bound to be influenced by the progress of Los Angeles, it is perhaps well to refer to certain phases of the development which have given Los Angeles an outstanding position among American municipalities. Virtually all the growth of the communities immediately surrounding Los Angeles will be represented in the overflow from the larger city. Los Angeles' industrial, commercial and harbor expansion will compel this suburban growth.

"Ten years ago Los Angeles was given, in the U. S. Census reports, a population of approximately 500,000. Today it is nearing the 1,000,000 mark, with more than 800,000 residents actually accounted for. Ten years ago its output of industrial products amounted to about $15,000,000. In 1922 this output had grown to about $850,000,000. A decade back its wage-earners totaled only about 120,000. This army has since grown to more than 260,000. The weekly payroll here in 1919 amounted to $2,747,501. In 1920 it had increased to $4,216,715 weekly.

Man Who Hurlled Wife From Bridge Is Held

ROME, Aug. 7.—Police have revealed a brutal crime near Spoleto. A blacksmith of that town, a young man of twenty-four, had a wife of but eighteen, with whom he was not always on good terms. A few days ago, however, he induced her to go for a walk in the country to a spot where a very high bridge ran across a ravine. She was afraid, but could not help herself and followed him reluctantly. As soon as they reached the bridge a quarrel arose between them, and the husband, becoming infuriated, seized his wife in his arms and threw her over the parapet from a height of eighty metres. The scene was witnessed by a monk, looking over from a mon-

Vital to Progress

"Los Angeles' harbor growth is as vital to the progress and prosperity of Glendale as other nearby cities, for the local port is really the key to our future expansion. From a so-called "land flat" in 1908 to the busiest in intercoastal shipping port in the United States is the history of the Los Angeles harbor in a nutshell. U. S. Shipping Board figures show that more freight, destined for other American ports left Los Angeles in the last three months of 1922 than from any other harbor. Last year 9,000,000 tons of freight were handled at the wharves of the Los Angeles harbor. Where in 1909 not a single vessel in international service left with a cargo from this port, today we have forty-two steamship lines having vessels in overseas service.

"Another significant reason for the growth and continued prosperity of Los Angeles and its surrounding territory is that within fifty miles of this city is produced annually more than one-sixth of the nation's crude oil supply—and oil is vital to the world's business. From a production of its various bi-products was valued at approximately $250,000,000 in 1922.

"The summarized facts about this amazing community, the growth of which represents the greatest story of progress in American history, are as follows: "Third among American cities in building permits this year, exceeding a valuation of $108,000,000 during the fiscal year ended June, 1923.

"Factories now in operation number 4,150; invested in industrial plants, approximately $600,000,000; bank clearings in 1922 totaled $5,152,000,000; bank resources, approximately $650,000,000, as compared with $487,567,000 a year ago; export trade in 1922, approximately $30,000,000; internal revenue collections in 1922, approximately $60,203,000; public school enrollment, 1923, more than 160,000 pupils."

Following Mr. Hellman's remarks, J. Arthur Myers rendered a vocal solo, accompanied by Ermon Lee Phillips, after which Mr. Emery called upon a number of stockholders of the Federal Commercial & Savings bank for short talks. The following were among those who responded: Charles C. Cooper, Jesse V. Rea, V. M. Hollister, E. U. Emery, A. T. Cowan, Harry W. Chase, W. G. Lauderdale, J. M. Rhodes, Harry J. Blumenthal, B. D. Erwin, T. J. Fambrough, J. R. Grey, Mrs. Freeman McG. Kelley, Paul E. Stillman.

This concluded the program. The officers of the Federal Commercial & Savings bank are: Charles C. Cooper, president; Jesse V. Rea, vice-president and cashier; William A. McCormick, assistant cashier, and Walter P. Llewellyn, manager of the escrow department.

The directors of the bank are: Charles C. Cooper, Jesse V. Rea, E. U. Emery, B. D. Erwin, V. M. Hollister, W. B. Lauderdale, W. P. Llewellyn, William McMillan and H. S. Webb.

MORE HOTELS FOR CITY MEAN MORE BUSINESS

Plenty Of Accommodations for Visitors Is Big Asset to Community; Several Good Sites, Builders, for Hostelties!

By GIL A. COWAN

HO for a hotel! Glendale has a couple planned, but how about three or four more? Strangers in our midst last evening appealed to The Glendale Evening News to find them accommodations. Really, it is criminal to make visitors tramp the town in hope of finding something suitable in the way of room. And at none of the hostelties is a person able to obtain a meal.

In our traveling around last week the hotel accommodations at several cities were noticed. And we wandered northward they became better. In Ventura there are two houses in the main part of the city, but the Pierpont Inn, off the traveled highway and almost inaccessible is a comfortable place with excellent meals. Santa Barbara suffered a loss, of course, when the Potter turned, but the Arlington and other houses are sufficiently spacious for the tourists. San Luis Obispo has a new million dollar ostelry under construction while Paso Robles has three or four houses which are always well filled.

Very Exclusive

It is said that Paso Robles Hot Springs hotel holds a record for prices along the coast route, it being one of the most exclusive places at which a person may put up. And the Taylor Highway hotel is the opposite, being reasonable to a degree. As a result, it has added to its quarters twice within the last year.

Jumping over to Fresno over the Cholame trail is a trip few motorists make, but the view it affords one of three of California's valleys between the mountains and the sea is well worth the perilous course over grades that go straight up and drop straight down, yet nothing worse than found on the National Old Trails highway.

In Fresno there are any number of hotels. We need not recommend them as they speak for themselves, and a greater hostelry is being built there. It seems as though it were an open season for hotel construction. Sacramento also is getting a great new hotel, the demands of travelers making all such establishments good investments.

More Business

The opening of the Egyptian Village cafe and the type of people found dining there indicates that a hostelry would go big with the populace here as a place for social events. Such is the case in other cities.

And the more hotels a city has the more business they do, it seems. Glendale ought to have several, not two or three.

Several good sites are available. Lima beans planted with the "eyes" down will grow faster and better than if the eyes are up.

Make Plans for Cat Show Here Last Of Year

PLANS for the annual cat show, probably the first week in December, were made last night at the meeting of the Glendale Cat club at the home of the president, Dr. Libbie Ashcroft, at 1157 Melrose avenue.

Officials chosen to direct the management of the show are Dr. Ashcroft, manager; Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, business manager; Mrs. Fred Hendrickson, treasurer; Mrs. B. V. Brasher, secretary; Mrs. Maude Durnford, secretary.

Action was taken authorizing the purchase of 10 new sanitary wire cages from Battle Creek, Mich., for use at the show.

The club is hoping to bring an eastern judge to Glendale for the annual event.

Other features of the meeting of three original poets on cats by Miss Mary B. de Witt, and the reception of two new members, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rich.

TABLES PLAN TO IMPROVE STREET

Central Ave. Improvement Is Subject of Report by City Engineer

Improvement of the sides of Central avenue between Broadway and Riverdale drive was discussed briefly last night by the City Council. The matter was finally laid upon the table until further advice can be obtained from the Central Avenue Improvement association.

Councilman Sam Davis was quite emphatic in his statement that there seems to be no reason why the city treasury should be called upon to pay for the improvement of Central avenue. He called attention to the fact that, if the county paid for the original paving of the middle of this highway, this is an additional reason why the property owners, fronting on this street, should be willing to pay the necessary assessments now. This attitude was endorsed by Councilman W. A. Horn. Councilman C. E. Kimlin added that there is no provision in the budget for such an expenditure.

Engineer's Report

City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy submitted the following report on the subject:

"In accordance with my recommendation and your order of July 19, plans and specifications have been prepared for placing gutters six feet in width and grading and oiling a strip eight feet wide on Central avenue from Broadway to Riverdale drive cost to be assessed to the abutting property.

"Under the proceedings as now written, a strip 5600 feet long by eight feet wide will be graded and oiled under the same specifications that were used on South Louise street about one year ago.

"Considerable opposition to this proceeding has already developed and the committee having the matter in charge is of the opinion that the proceeding will be protested unless the city pays for regrading and oiling this strip eight feet wide on each side of the street. If the city does this work, it will cost about $2,000.

"A request has also come to the office that the improvement be extended at least to Windsor road and possibly to San Fernando road.

Suggests Alternative

"The question also arises as to whether it would not be the best policy to pave this strip eight feet in width adjacent to gutters six feet in width with permanent pavement which can be placed on the grade of the permanent pavement for the entire cross section. The cost of permanent paving, including grading, would be about 28 cents per square foot and the cost of the grading and oiling as proposed would be about four cents per square foot if the city does the work or five cents per square foot if included in the improvement proceedings. The question to be settled at this time is whether the city will pay the $2,000 for regrading and oiling the two strips between the gutters and the center of the road.

"Your immediate action is requested as it will be necessary to start these proceedings now if the gutters are put in before the winter rains. I recommend that this matter be referred back to the committee on the improvement of Central avenue."

Missourian Plans to Start Oil Station

Earl J. Warner, who recently came to Southern California from Sedalia, was in Glendale yesterday, looking over South Brand boulevard property with the view of establishing an oil and gasoline station. Mr. Warner is visiting at present at the home of his brother, Kenneth Warner, of Los Angeles.

EFFECT COMPROMISE IN LOS FELIZ TAX SUITS

Committee Meets to Decide On What Action to Take; Pass Resolution Asking City Council for More Protection

FIFTY people who are affected by the Los Feliz road improvement tax and formed the Los Feliz Tax Protective Association met in the Odd Fellows' hall yesterday morning at 11 o'clock and heard reports by L. W. Chobe, chairman, that Steddom & Blanchard, bond brokers, of Los Angeles, would cut the costs about $14 for each suit brought to collect the assessments.

This communication was referred to a committee of five composed of Mr. Chobe, G. H. Wende, Mrs. Carrie Terrill, N. L. Dutton and Mrs. Fannie O. Stone, which is meeting today to decide on a course of action. While several proposed to fight the suits, which they believe to be both illegal and unjust, it was the consensus of opinion that a compromise be effected.

Pass Resolution

In order that there be no repetition of similar street bond quarrels, the meeting went on record in the following resolution which has been forwarded to the Glendale City Council:

"Be it resolved that due to the exorbitant amounts added by the Los Angeles bonding company to the original assessments for street improvement of Los Feliz boulevard that this organization go on record as protesting against such procedure in the city of Glendale, because of the undue hardships imposed upon property owners, thereby harming the city of Glendale.

"Be it further resolved that the City Council instruct the city attorney that such protection could be taken care of when contract for improvement is let, or when such assessments are released by city to bonding company."

The resolution was signed by the chairman, Mr. Chobe. The avoidance of assessment complications similar to those existing in the Los Feliz district is sought by the City Council. Councilman Sam Davis at last night's meeting made the following motion, which was seconded by Councilman W. A. Horn and carried unanimously:

"I move that the city attorney be instructed to report to the City Council on ways and means of avoiding, if possible, a repetition of the wholesale filing of suits such as have been recently filed by the Los Feliz property assessments."

City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy inquired whether a man from his department should be permitted

APPROVE LAYING OF WATER PIPES

Property Owners Petition For Installation in Grand View District

The laying of additional water pipe in the Grand View district was approved last night by the City Council. A petition received from fifty-seven per cent of the interested property owners requested the installation of water pipe on Chilton drive between Alameda street and its easterly terminus, Allen avenue between Tenth street and Bellevue drive, and Elm street between Bellevue drive and its northerly terminus.

"The proceedings to be instituted," states the petition, "to make provision for the payments to be made through one of the bond acts whereby the assessments will run for a period of ten years with one-tenth of the principal to be paid yearly."

City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy recommended that the necessary proceedings be commenced.

Students to Banquet Professor W. J. Masak

Professor William J. Masak of 321 Burchett street, is to be honored tonight, when his students at the Southern branch of the University of California will give a banquet at a large tea room in Los Angeles.

At the close of the dinner hour Professor Masak will speak to the company on "The Ideals of the Young Engineer."

Professor Masak is conducting summer classes at the university.

Patriotic Bodies to Hold Meeting Friday

Both the G. A. R. and W. R. C. are to meet this coming Friday. The post of Civil war veterans will meet in the morning in their hall on South Glendale avenue. Their meeting will begin at 10 o'clock and last until noon.

to go to Los Angeles to work for a week locating interested property owners of the Los Feliz district, who are residents of Los Angeles. Councilman C. E. Kimlin expressed his opinion that the city administration was morally bound to this extent. Although the city had no part in the commencement of these suits, he added that the city should do everything possible to assist the taxpayers. After a short discussion, the council concluded that sending someone to Los Angeles to work on the case probably would be unnecessary.

LOSES TRADE AS POLICE TAG CARS

Parking in Middle of Street Causes Traffic Jam, Fraser Claims

The City Council last night received a protest against the "tagging" of automobiles left standing in the middle of the street for a moment, by J. Herbert Smith, whose place of business at 116 North Brand boulevard is known as the Glendale Groceria.

Many customers of this establishment park their automobiles some distance from the store and then drive by later to pick up their packages. Employees watch for the arrival of their machines and hurry out to them with the groceries, which have been put in a box by the door. Several of the automobiles, which were halted to receive packages in front of the store, have been "tagged."

Vigorous protest against such action was made by Mr. Smith. He declared that his business was being severely handicapped. He asserted that his store has lost considerable business already, and is likely to lose much more.

Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police, reported that permitting machines to park for even a minute or two in the street on the outside of the regular parking space made traffic almost uncontrollable. He added that he did not see how the Glendale Groceria could be given privileges not accorded to other mercantile establishments. He called attention to the fact that loading of passenger automobiles in Los Angeles is not permissible. The intolerable complication of traffic when several machines are allowed to park parallel to each other in the middle of the street was denounced by Councilman W. A. Horn.

Councilman C. E. Kimlin, who acted as mayor pro tem, inquired if Mr. Smith had a suggestion to offer to remedy the situation.

The possibility of machines parking adjacent to fire hydrants, provided the driver remains at the wheel, was discussed. Chief Fraser stated that this is lawful, but Mr. Smith called attention to the fact that these are too far to each side of the front of his store to be of much service.

AFRICA BECKONS TO MISSIONARIES

Learned of 1549 Glenwood road, will leave Glendale September 1 for Bolenge, Congo-Belge, Africa, where they will take up active missionary work. They are being sent to foreign fields through the College of Missions of Indianapolis, Ind., where both Mr. Learned and his wife recently graduated. Prior to leaving New York for foreign waters on September 19, the local missionaries will spend several days in Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Chicago and New York for the purpose of making complete preparations for their life-work among the South Africans.

SANITARIUM CLASS TO HOLD EXERCISES MONDAY

Five States, District Of Columbia, Three Countries Represented; Social Affairs Are Being Given for Graduates

RECORDED in the history of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital as the final class to train in the old building on East Broadway, the 1923 class of nurses to receive diplomas next Monday night, is the seventeenth and largest class yet graduated from the institution. An added feature of interest is that the twenty-one members of the class include nineteen women and two men, representing five states and the District of Columbia, and three countries.

Sermon On Saturday

California claims the largest number of the class, while the state of Oregon comes next. The three countries represented by the class are the United States, British Columbia and France.

As announced yesterday in The Glendale Evening News, the baccalaureate sermon for the class will be preached Saturday morning at the Seventh-Day Adventist church. The graduation will be held at the same church Monday night, with Elder Luther Warren of the Paradise Valley sanitarium, near San Diego, giving the commencement address. On the following night, Tuesday, the alumni will gather for their annual reunion and to receive the new graduates.

There are two social events being given this week for the class. Tonight the graduates will be entertained by Dr. Lydia Parmele and Elder R. W. Parmele, at their home on East California. On Thursday night the junior nurses will honor the seniors at a social affair at the sanitarium and hospital.

Students Increase

"This is the largest class we have ever graduated," said Mrs. Daisy D. Harris, superintendent of nurses, and we feel that the members all measure up to the high standards maintained by the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

"It is the last class to take training in the old building. We already have forty student nurses registered for the coming year and with our fine new building and equipment at our command we are looking forward to larger graduating classes on each successive year. We will undoubtedly have 100 nurses in training in the new building."

LEGION POST TO OFFER PROGRAM

Special Committee Plans to Give Entertainment in Near Future

Preliminary plans to put on a sporting program in the near future, were discussed yesterday afternoon by a special committee of the American Legion.

Commander Chalmers D. Day of 521 East Elk avenue expressed his opinion that enough talent of all kinds is available in southern California to bring those interested many miles.

The idea that an entertainment should be arranged solely to raise money was not favored. The committee was unanimously in favor of having whatever program is decided upon well worth the admission.

Favor Boxing Bouts

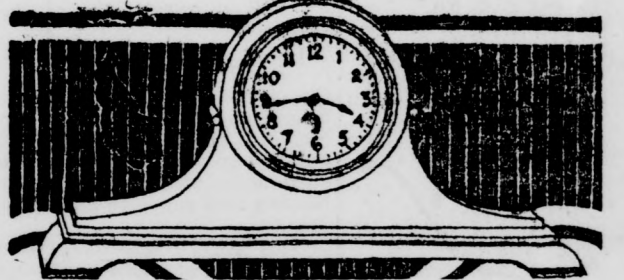

The possibility of arranging a boxing card was suggested. This idea met with considerable favor—especially in view of the interest in the weekly boxing cards staged by the Hollywood Post of the American Legion.

Further plans are to be made in the near future by the committee, which is composed of C. B. Guthrie, James H. Wittmeyer, G. L. Kaeding, W. H. Reeves, R. E. Corrigan and Lester Marston—all members of the local post of the American Legion.

TDOAY—Mauna Loa Erupting Again; Ex-Christian Now Buddhist; Superstitious Hawaiians.

TOMORROW—Paris Bohemia Inlaid; Latin Quarter Misnomer; Too Many Spectators, by Harry Flory, Paris Staff.

By IRENE CORBALLY KUHN
For International News Service

HONOLULU, Aug. 7.—Hundreds of residents of the Hawaiian Islands are flocking to the "Big Island," Hawaii, to gaze in awe upon a spectacle that has never before presented such a terrifying aspect and may never again.

The entire fire pit of Halemau-mau, in the crater of the volcano Kilauea on the side of the mountain Mauna Loa is now a mass of seething lava, the largest lava pool ever seen in the "house of fire," as Halemau-mau is called by Hawaiians.

Dr. T. A. Jaggar, Jr., in charge of the volcano observatory, reports that several small pits and lakes of lava have combined in a single lake which comprises the entire area of the bottom of the pit, nearly two miles in circumference. The main fountain of lava issues from the southwestern end of the pit. Fumes and noxious odors make the western rim exceedingly dangerous for spectators.

Except for a narrow border edge at the liquid level the whole pit is occupied by an immense sheet of fiery lava 1900 feet long by 1450 feet wide.

Bishop M. T. Kirby, a white Christian converted to Buddhism, is the instigator of a drive for converts to Buddhism among the English-speaking peoples of Hawaii. Action was taken here recently by Buddhist leaders who voted to organize a Buddhist evangelical society in Hawaii, with headquarters in Honolulu.

Special attention will be paid to spreading the teachings of the sect in English. The society, according to its present plans, will train English-speaking priests of the sect in English, as well as distributing other publications in English relating to Buddhism.

Two men, graduates either of a local high school or a Buddhist university of Japan, will be invited to study five years in a mainland university, it being understood that upon the completion of their studies they will preach Buddhism in Hawaii.

Plans for the organization of the evangelical society were outlined by the Rev. Y. Imamura, a bishop of Hongwanji Mission in Honolulu, at a recent church conference. Bishop Imamura will be the active head of the society, with the title of managing director.

Superstitious Hawaiians of the old guard are mumbling among themselves these days and saying that they hear the rustle of Death's wings in the air. True to traditions of hundreds of years ago, many of them are preparing for mourning and funeral rites. The cause of all the depression is the "luna kala" which appeared around the sun and circled the full Hawaiian moon here recently. This sign, the old Hawaiians say, meant that the Grim Reaper was sharpening his fatal weapon and was preparing to cut off the life of a high chief.

An entirely different explanation of the solar phenomenon is given by science, however, which, according to Professor Donaghio of the University of Hawaii, takes place as often as six times a year. The solar and lunar halos, according to Professor Donaghio, are caused by the rays of light passing through very fine ice particles hanging suspended 12,000 to 15,000 feet above the earth's surface. These particles are so widely distributed that they are invisible to the eye, but the light, caught, concentrated and refracted, appears plainly as a luminous ring.

Deposits in the ten banks in Honolulu increased nearly 25 per cent during the first six months of this year.

Total money on deposit in all the banks at the close of business on the last day in June was $50,541,613.12, as compared with $42,890,492.69 on December 31. This is the highest figure ever reached in the history of banking in Honolulu.

The largest gain of all was made by the Bank of Hawaii, whose deposits jumped from $19,777,100.59 to $22,200,510.13 in the six-month period.

Combined resources of the banks were $60,580,526.56, as against $53,347,717.69 six months ago.

Billy Whiskers

"Man would never give it a thought that you have a better right to the grass than he," went on Billy Whiskers, "for God created the grass for the horses, not men. Most likely, too, the man had driven you a long way, and he was hot, thirsty and tired, and so he had stopped to rest, get harm for us to help ourselves to a few vegetables, and if he objects too strongly I shall butt him to the back of his store and across the street, where I'll make him stay until I have had all that I want."

"There, I think the last customer has gone. No, there is one more lady still in the store," said Nannie. "I bet you it is that fat one with the basket!"

"Well, if she doesn't come over soon I will butt her basket over the moon when she does leave," Billy waited a few minutes, then he said: "I'll give her until I count three. If she is not out then, over the moon her basket goes."

Slowly he counted three. Then he stalked toward the store, but just as he got there the lady came out with her basket filled to overflowing with celery, cabbages, and from the other legs of a chicken. As she stepped out the grocer went back into the store after his hat, for he too was hungry and eager to go to his dinner.

The woman was about to walk away when she saw a nice yellow squash which she decided to take after having pinched and handled it, and went back to the door to call the grocer.

(Are you not afraid Billy will lose patience and butt the poor woman?)

THE FICTITIOUS OIL LEVEL

Appearances Are Often Deceitful

Unless a car is setting practically level, the height of the oil in the crankcase will be incorrectly indicated by a float gauge, try-cock or measuring stick. If the car stands so that the side of it upon which the measuring device is located is the higher, before the correct level is indicated such an excess of oil will have been supplied as to make the engine smoke badly or perhaps to short-circuit the plugs. A float gauge which is loggy or sticks or a try-cock which is clogged may also deceive one into supplying much more oil than is required to secure the correct level. A wire should occasionally be run through the try-cocks to clean them. If an engine which ordinarily disposes of a normal amount of oil suddenly appears to have become very economical of it, as indicated by the prolonged maintenance of the level, without additions having been made to the supply, investigation should at once be undertaken, as it is probable that water is entering the crankcase from a leaky head-gasket or from an external leak via the valve compartment. It is not uncommon for such water leaks to cause the rising of the apparent oil level—a phenomenon which in itself is sufficiently "phony" to arouse suspicion. Immoderately excessive use of the strainer has been known to cause a fictitious maintenance or even a rising of the oil level, through fuel ends thus admitted to the crankcase.

TWO CYLINDERS MISS
H. S. B. writes: After driving my car five or ten miles the engine begins to skip irregularly in cylinders one and two. A new condenser and complete wiring have been installed, and the make-and-break has been inspected. Can you tell me where the trouble is?

Answer: The fact that your engine misses on but two of its four cylinders makes it seem unlikely that there is any trouble in the ignition units themselves, unless it may be that there is weak insulation in the high tension portion of the distributor. If the ignition system as a whole were damaged, missing of the other two cylinders would be expected. You say nothing about spark plugs. Are you sure that those in the troublesome cylinders are perfect and have their points at the right gap? Too wide gaps, in conjunction with the high compression pressures that are attained when an engine is hot, may cause occasional misses. As the trouble comes on only after you have driven several miles, it occurs to us that your fuel feed may be slightly inadequate, enough so as not to keep the gasoline level up to normal in the carburetor. Under such conditions the first indication of trouble sometimes is the missing of the two cylinders which draw the leanest mixture.

TROUBLE STARTING STIFF ENGINE
T. R. P. writes: Since fitting new piston rings and taking up the bearings in the engine of my car the starter will not start it, although it turns it over all right. I can, however, start it by hand-cranking. The ignition system seems all right and the battery is fully charged, but the cylinders don't fire when the starter is used. What is the matter?

Answer: Probably your engine is so stiff that it turns over very hard and the starter-motor takes so much more current than usual from the battery that its voltage falls below that required to produce effective sparks under compression. Cranking speed may also be so reduced as to make carburation weak. As your engine limbers up you may expect this starting trouble to disappear, but in the meantime you can use a set of dry cells for starting ignition only. Possibly by short-circuiting the distributor resistance unit when the starter is to be used, and then only, the ignition system may get enough current to operate it. You better make sure that your spark plug gaps are not too wide.

in a wheel chair. And, like Steinmetz, has overcome this handicap and the pain that oft accompanies it while making himself famous by his work with high-power transmission and other angles of electricity.

He received his education and early experience in his homeland, Italy. He was graduated from the Institute of Technology in Milan and after leaving that institution spent some years designing alternate current machinery.

He came to the United States when 25 and obtained work with the New York Edison company. Then, to further his study in transit work, he joined the Interborough company in New York. In 1904 he went to the Crocker-Wheeler company to study the manufacturing end of the electrical business and while there was offered the post of assistant manager of the Stanley Laboratories. This plant later was absorbed by the General Electric company, and when the consolidation took place he remained with the concern and is now chief electrical engineer.

Indict Ten Oil Men. On Charge of Fraud

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—Ten oil promoters connected with two companies were indicted here late yesterday by the federal grand jury. The indictment followed a sweeping investigation recently launched by the district attorney.

Warrants charging use of the mails to defraud were issued against E. B. Chapin, Glenn W. Back, R. H. Roland, J. H. Maulb, Jack Carrillo, Bernard Callen, Marlan Cullen, Robert C. Dennison and Tom V. King. Bail was fixed at from $2,500 to $10,000.

GIUSEPPE FACCIOLI
His recent startling experiments with artificial lightning and high-tension currents has brought Giuseppe Faccioli into prominence of late.

The electrical world has known much of Faccioli for years. He is Steinmetz's only rival. But the general public knew little of Faccioli until he unleashed bolts of lightning the other day.

Faccioli is like Steinmetz in many ways. He is a cripple, for one thing. He does all his work

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY WRITES A LETTER
"Hello, Uncle Wiggily! Here is a letter for you!" whistled the Robin postman as he flew down to the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow and left a square piece of white birch bark on the porch.

"Oh, a letter for me! Thank you!" said Uncle Wiggily. "It's from Uncle Butter," he added, as he read the note.

"How is Uncle Butter?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, as the rabbit gentleman's muskrat lady housekeeper stepped out on the porch after having peeled the carrots to make a strawberry short-cake.

"Uncle Butter is just fine," answered Mr. Longears, as he let Nurse Jane read the goat gentleman's birch bark letter. "He is on his vacation and he says he never tasted such good circus poster pudding with paste sauce on as they serve at his boarding house."

"That's wonderful," laughed Nurse Jane. "It's queer how goats like to eat paper from circus billboards. But then I suppose they think it queer that you like carrots, Uncle Wiggily."

"I suppose so," murmured the rabbit gentleman. "But I must write a letter to Uncle Butter this afternoon. He wants me to take a run down in my auto and see him."

"First you promised to go to the store for me," said Nurse Jane. And when Uncle Wiggily had done this errand and had his lunch Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy went downtown to shop at the 11 and 12 cent store.

"And this will be a good time for me to write a letter to Uncle Butter," thought Uncle Wiggily. But when he looked all over the hollow stump bungalow he could not find a pencil or pen with which to write. He found a square of white bark from the birch tree, which would do very well as a piece of paper.

But I can't write without pencil or pen," said Uncle Wiggily. "I should have asked Nurse Jane where they were before she went out."

He hunted high and he hunted low for something with which to write, and at last he said:

"Well, I shall have to do as the Indians used to do—write with the blackened end of a burned stick. That will be like a pencil."

Uncle Wiggily found a long, thin stick. Holding the end in the kitchen fire, he let the stick burn a little, and then he blew it out, leaving a blackened end. With the black, charcoal end of this stick the rabbit gentleman began to write a letter to the goat.

"Dear Uncle Butter," wrote Uncle Wiggily. "I take my black stick in paw to let you know we are all well and hope you are the same." Then the rabbit bit the clean end of his writing stick and said to himself:

"Well, I've told him all the news. I wonder what else I shall write to him? Let me see—hum—hum—

Now, while Uncle Wiggily was thinking what to say out in the woods not far from his hollow stump bungalow roamed a White Wolf. This Wolf, who was as white as snow, was a cousin to the Woozie Wolf. And the Woozie Wolf had said to his white cousin:

"If you will go to the hollow stump bungalow you will find some rabbit ears to nibble."

So the White Wolf went slinking along, softly, softly, softly, until he was at the back door. Nurse Jane had forgotten to lock it when she went out, and Uncle Wiggily was so busy writing a letter to Uncle Butter that he had not heard the White Wolf enter. "Boo," all of a sudden growled the White Wolf. "Where are your ears that I may nibble them?" he asked, standing in front of the rabbit.

"My ears are on my head," answered Uncle Wiggily. "But I don't want you to nibble them!"

"All the same I'm going to," howled the White Wolf. He sprang up, but Uncle Wiggily leaped from his chair and cried:

"Nibble my ears, will you? Well, if you do, I'll mark your white fur all over with black marks. I'll make a Black Wolf of you instead of a White Wolf!"

The bunny shook his blackened writing stick at the bad chap. And the White Wolf was so proud of his snowy fur that he crinkled all up in a heap and whined:

"Oh, don't blacken me! Don't make my white fur all charcoal! I'll be good! I'll be good! I won't nibble your ears." And out of the bungalow he ran as fast as he could go.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he waved the black stick. "It is a very good thing I wrote a letter to Uncle Butter. And, if the postage stamp doesn't try to turn a somersault and make the envelope feel like standing on its head, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the wild cherries."

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY
Ad Schuster

The tiny Mr. Mings and his Amazonian wife had not been in the neighborhood a week before they were dubbed the Henpecks. If ever a man looked tied to apron strings, an obedient and terrorized servant, that man was Lucien Mings. And yet there was nothing to prove the suspicion.

On the streets the oddly-sorted pair drew comment and attention. Lucien Mings, for all his well-dressed clothes, walking stick, and dandified air, was not impressive. He was too short and too thin, and he had a way of turning his head quickly this way and that as he peered on the world through the thick lenses of his spectacles. So short were his steps when compared to the strides of Mrs. Latonia Mings that he had the appearance of running.

The wife was tall, broad, and so straight she all but leaned backwards. There were grim lines in her face and she swung her arms like a man. Women who saw them smiled pityingly and remarked that Lucien was more of a pet than a husband. Indeed, it was as if an invisible string reached from her hand to his collar and she was leading him, all dressed up so neatly, for inspection as another woman might parade with a dog. The men shook their heads and tilted him.

The Mings had been in Minden two months before the rumors started to spread. At first there were many who did not believe the story as told by Mrs. Whipple, but they had to change their minds. The evidence was all against the wife.

"You know," Mrs. Whipple had told the story many times. The Mings live nearer to me than anybody else. Fact is, I am the only one that is at all close. Well, when the rest of you are asleep and nobody much except the milkman is up, I have heard goings on that would surprise."

Mrs. Whipple always made an impressive pause. "Several mornings I have heard him scream and a racket going on. I have heard him protest and beg, and her big voice gruff-like. Then he yells again and again. It's my conviction, take it or leave it lay, that she beats him."

"A wife-beater!" Mrs. Whipple always concluded, "is bad enough but who'd think of walloping a nice little man like Mr. Mings?" As stated, few believed the story at first. Then it happened that Mr. Tyler just happened to get his alarm clock for the early morning hour and just happened, again, to walk by the Mings place. His testimony, given in the Men's Club which meets at the postoffice, did more than corroborate Mrs. Whipple; it added heart-rending details.

"The little cuss," said Arthur, was yelling his head off and there was a terrible banging around. It seems a pity, it does, and not according to what is right. Maybe we men can take some sort of action afore this here husband-bickering habit gets a chance to spread." Arthur, who was none too strong, spoke nervously. "It ain't that I'm scared my wife will take to whipping me," Colonel Myers voiced the sentiment, "but I am constitutionally opposed to granting women any more rights than they have at present. And I pity the little fellow. Did you ever think how small a man must feel just after he had been beaten up by his wife?"

The group gave silent consideration to the problem and resolved for the good of Minden and the quiet of the early morning hours, they would visit the Mings home and make protest. They would call in the morning, they decided, when the evidence could not be denied. They would shame the Amazon, as the Colonel said, in her lair.

The next morning the Men's club heard the cries of the timid Mr. Mings and their hearts went out to a brother in distress. They pressed on the Mings doorbell, one after another, but so loud was the outcry within there was no one who could hear. Finally the noise ceased and Mrs. Mings greeted them.

"What do you want," she asked surveying the group, "at this unearthly hour?"

Seven men exchanged furtive glances and the Colonel found voice. "We wanted to see Mr. Mings," he explained. "Something important."

The door was opened and they filed in, through the living room and into the kitchen, where the man who had voiced the outcries was seated in a bathrobe in front of a pile of hot cakes. He all but choked when he saw the solemn visitors.

"Just eating breakfast. Excuse bathrobe. Latonia's hot cakes, gentlemen, best in the land. Cook up some more for the gentlemen." He shouted the last and bowed and smiled in his embarrassment. Mrs. Mings slapped batter onto the griddle and they all sat down. The consensus of opinion was that the cakes were good.

"And what was it you wanted?" Mings asked. There were no marks of battle on this man. A mistake had been made somewhere.

"We came to invite you to join the Men's club," the Colonel spluttered. "It's the custom to do it at the breakfast hour and, well, we heard you outside and knew you were up."

Mrs. Mings was smiling with pleasure at the honor which had come to her husband. "They heard you," she said playfully to the little Mings. "Gentlemen, did you ever hear a man protest so much at taking a cold shower? The doctor says he has to do it, or I wouldn't insist."

BRIDE LOYAL TO HUBBY IN CRISIS

Remains Steadfast As Charges Are Made

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney, millionaire and noted sportsman, has returned with his bride from Paris, where they were married in May. She was the former Miss Marie Norton, of New York and Westbury, Long Island, fashionable society resort. Miss Norton remained loyal when Evan Burrows Fontaine, celebrated dancer, brought $100,000 breach of promise suit against "Sonny" Whitney. She had her reward when the suit fizzled. Miss Fontaine and her mother now face a perjury charge as a result of their allegations in the case. Whitney declined to comment on the matter on his arrival.

WALKING SHORT STORIES
"I have just left my letter to let the fellow in and I have been talking to him for half an hour. Perhaps you may be interested in our conversation. I was having some difficulty in fixing the drain and he offered to help, saying, with the delightful nonchalance of youth, 'I fixed our refrigerator for my wife this morning.' He is only a youngster and of course I expressed my surprise at his marriage, and then the whole story of his romance came out. I can't tell you how I enjoyed it. I think blouse unfigured and of only one color. A practical combination, for instance, would be a dark-blue skirt with a tan eponge stripe, worn with a plain dark-blue Rosinara overblouse. Of course you will need a long coat (tweed is sensible) and a close, small hat in case you go in the auto. It would also be best to have a one-piece dark-blue crepe de chine dress to put on for evening wear when you stop at a hotel."

Mrs. W. Z.: "One of your readers recently asked how to straighten a warped parchment shade. Will you kindly tell her that she can give her parchment shade the right shape again by going to a department store and buying a wire frame for it, or she can buy some fine wire at a hardware store and sew this around the bottom of the parchment shade, then bind it with a narrow tape to match the ground color of the shade."

Answer: Thank you, reader friend. I knew someone would be kind enough to send us this information.

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

Bonnie: A little cream of tartar, taken when the blood is overheated, is sometimes of benefit, but to make a practise of taking it in such quantity as you suggest would be risking your health. Keep your skin clear through a daily bath, enough exercise, and by eating the kind of food that digests without clogging the system.

Worried: Lines under the eyes at 23 only show that you are in need of a little building up. nourish the tissues with olive oil or a good cream. Get out in the air as much as your time will permit.

Mrs. C. H. M.: If you had left the henna shampoo on your hair for a longer time, say another five minutes, the gray hair would have been so tinted that it would not be noticeable. You cannot tint one part without all of it showing the effect.

Reader: To overcome the unpleasant odor accompanying perspiration, scrub the feet every night, using a soap in which there is salicylic acid. Dust them afterward with a powder in which there is some antiseptic. Any drugist will be able to supply these simple needs. A frequent change of shoes and stockings will also afford relief.

Betty: Crude oil will not hurt the hair. The treatment, however, is for the scalp when there is a tendency to dryness or dandruff. Be sure to wash it all out the next day, as any oil on the hair will attract dirt. Any cream will cleanse the pores.

M. V. R.: Unless you can have the coarse hairs destroyed by the electric needle, extract them by using blunt end tweezers. If the finer hair shows bleach it with peroxide.

Mrs. K.: Your requests are so numerous that replies in print would consume much space. If you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope I will be glad to give you all this information.

Frank G.: I am sure that the pilargine tonic will help your hair. Until you get rid of the dandruff it would be well not to use a brush.

M. W. K., Mrs. L. B.: If you send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope I will mail you a hair tonic formula that will do for your daughter as well as yourself.

Mrs. A. K.: Try eating food in which there is more ruffage, such as bran or whole wheat, instead of resorting to regular doses of oil or tablets. Constipation is often overcome by merely changing from white bread to that made from whole wheat.

M. W.: Before going to a dance pat the face and neck with a small piece of absorbent cotton kept moistened with witch hazel. This will close the pores and lessen the tendency to excessive perspiring. At intervals wipe the face off with a chamolai pad and use a bit of powder.

Diet and Health
By Lulu Hunt Peters, MD.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

Candy—No. 11

In children excess candy eating has far more serious consequences than it does in adults. For not only may it have the effects I have enumerated for the adults, but it very often cloy the children's appetites so that the foods they need for growth and development are not absorbed.

In a child with a diabetic tendency, candy excess can precipitate that disease. We know that many cases of diabetes have their start on the holidays when excess candy is eaten.

It used to be thought that excess candy was the cause of much dental decay by direct fermentative action in the teeth. We know now that the action of candy in causing dental caries is as much indirect as direct.

In this way it causes the diet to become unbalanced and insufficient so that the lime, phosphorus, iron and other inorganic elements are deficient. For this reason there are not enough of them to be desisted in the teeth, so the teeth soften and decay.

The irritation caused by excess candy may also hinder the absorption of the inorganic elements, even if there are sufficient of them supplied.

Candy is a food—a very concentrated food, but an energy food. Most candy has no protein, no vitamins, no inorganic salts, no anything but energy—calories. Pure molasses and maple candies are exceptions, for molasses and maple syrup do have some of the essential salts in them.

Molasses and refiner's syrups are by-products in the manufacture of sugar, and they contain practically all of the mineral matter of the cane. White sugar is demineralized because it will not crystallize if the minerals are left in it. There are no proteins, no philosophies. I remember a little old foreign tailor to whose fittings I used to look forward because some chance remark of mine gained his confidence and led him to talk freely of what he had learned about human nature as a tailor.

The older I grow the more I am coming to feel that happiness in life has much to do with being interested in life, the less chance you have of being bored. And to cultivate the art of making people tell you the interesting things about themselves is to erect one more barrier between yourself and boredom.

MARCHING LEGION

The vast unsettled acreage of Nevada will be utilized for the rehabilitation of veterans of the world war, if a plan suggested by Governor James G. Scrugham of Nevada is carried out.

The project, as outlined by the governor, who is a past national vice-commander of the American ing the land. But it is well adapted to poultry and dairy industries, and with a little financial encouragement the veterans could make a success of this project."

Governor Scrugham said that Nevada has about $60,000 which could be devoted to the plan and that federal assistance can be obtained if the organizations concerned will back up the project.

Prominent religious and fraternal organizations were pledged by their representatives to support the ideals and purposes of the American Legion at a recent conference in Washington.

"We heartily approve of the American Legion as a great organization composed of men and women who served their country in the world war, earnestly hoping that they will continue to serve their country in time of peace with the same patriotic devotion that animated them in the days when they wore the uniform," a resolution adopted at the meeting affirmed.

"We pledge them our cordial support, wishing them all success and every blessing, as they pursue these high ideals."

Organizations joining in the tribute were the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, Mystic Shrine, Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, Young Men's Christian Association, American Red Cross and National Catholic Welfare Council.

Legion, calls for united effort on the part of government agencies and the legion and other veterans' organizations, supplemented by federal and state appropriations. It will be presented for consideration at the legion's annual convention in San Francisco next October.

"There are thousands of acres of good land with water rights going to waste in Nevada which can be purchased cheaply and turned over to the rehabilitation of war veterans," Governor Scrugham stated in a recent interview.

"This is a real opportunity for people of the state are themselves too busily engaged in mining and other activities to devote themselves to the hardship of development."

envelopes enclosed with inquiries for replies must be self-addressed. It is impossible for Dr. Peters to take time to address several hundred envelopes each day. Furthermore, it is often impossible to make sure of the correct spelling of your names; a great many replies have recently been returned undelivered because of this.

Write your name, street number, city and state in full on an envelope, stamp it and enclose it with your inquiry. (Dr. Peters to consider your request for information.—The Editor.)

EAGLE ROCK WATER QUESTION IS FORUM TOPIC

Lack of Adequate Supply Is Vital Matter for Every Resident, Claim

Tonight at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of the City Hall on East Colorado boulevard, will be held the August open forum meeting of the Chamber of Commerce; and at 8 o'clock Thursday night, August 9, at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, also on East Colorado boulevard, will be staged a benefit concert for the piano fund of the Seventh Day Adventist building fund.

Both of these gatherings will be well worth the attention of local residents, judging from the careful preparations that have been made.

H. H. Maxson states that the Chamber of Commerce gathering will be addressed by an authority on the water supply. This is a very vital matter, he states, and one that concerns personally every resident of the community. Eagle Rock has the firemen and the fire-fighting apparatus, it is pointed out, but lacks the supply of water necessary to fully protect the property investment that is daily being increased.

The benefit concert at the Women's clubhouse will feature twenty-five voices under the direction of Mrs. Edna Lawrence. This chorus will be ably assisted by many well known musicians of the Southland, among them Prof. William Petts and Herman Ermsar, violinists; Prof. E. T. Seat, of Chicago, baritone soloist; Ralph Beagle and Harold Ermsar, cornet-trombone duet; Miss Hilda Brockway, piano soloist; Mrs. Lawrence and the Misses Lorraine and Genevieve Lawrence, song trio.

A special feature will be the Rupee male quartet of Los Angeles.

It is understood that the Adventists already have a lot selected for their new church, and have raised two-thirds of the required funds.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Edwards have purchased a home in Pasadena, at 325 Bellfontaine street, just off Orange Grove avenue. The consideration is said to have been $25,000. They have lived in Eagle Rock for many years, and Mrs. Edwards has been active in social work while her husband, who is of the firm of Edwards & Wilder, is one of the men who laid out Eagle Rock. Mrs. Edwards was at one time president of the Women's Twentieth Century club. They will be greatly missed from this community.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Behme, of 5224 Royal drive, will build at the corner of Hill avenue and Royal drive, having sold their home at the above address, to William D. Jacobs.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Hatch and family, of 133 Glen Eyrie avenue, are vacationing in the Yosemite National Park.

Mrs. Emily Ong, of 150 Paloma avenue, is entertaining Rev. O. V. Ong, of Pasadena, and Miss Mildred Ong, of Smithfield, Ohio.

Passers-by who have enjoyed the fountain outside the office of Haas & Devoil, realtors, at 204 East Colorado boulevard, will be glad to know that this fountain has now been fixed.

Miss Linda and Miss Rebecca McClean, of 217 North Highlands avenue, are attending the summer session of the U. of C. Southern branch.

POLICE PROBING LOWRY'S RECORD

Sportsman, Held On Burglary Charge, Has Criminal Past, Is Claim

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—Headed by Fred Wagner, prominent automobile manufacturer, investigation of Frank Lowry, nationally known clubman and sportsman, now in the General Hospital suffering a broken leg, sustained, the police say, when he fled from a building after attempting to open a safe, is being speeded up.

Lowry, unnamed by the pleas of his friends to tell what he can of himself remained silent as investigators declared, unless he speaks to the contrary, they may prove him responsible for many mysterious robberies throughout the country. Officers claim they have traced his past and found: In Minneapolis in 1916, Lowry was arrested as a burglar and was given five years' probation.

In New York, after a running battle, he was arrested. The battle started when he was clubbed at the Grand Central Station. That was less than a year ago, and his friends secured his release on promises of good behavior. Cliff Durant, automobile maker, continued seeking permission to have an operation performed on Lowry to remove a mental disorder which is said to be responsible for his strange dual personality.

CONGRESSMEN ON INSPECTION TRIP

Government Projects to Be Viewed by Junketing
Party of Solons

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 7.—The transport Cheamont, bearing a congressional party of thirty-four on a tour of inspection of government projects, has reached San Diego ahead of schedule.

The party, which consists of eight members of congress, their families, and a number of naval officers, left this morning on an auto trip to the mountains and for a first hand view of the projected Jacumba irrigation plant, which is a part of the Imperial Valley system. Congressmen Vinson, Darrow, Drane, Drewery, O'Connor, Patterson, Davis, several of whom are members of the House Naval and Military Affairs committees, together with Rear-Admiral Gregory, Commander Walter Smead, and Captain J. M. Enoch, detailed by the navy department for the trip, will today inspect the various naval bases situated on San Diego bay. Several important measures to come before the next session of congress will be passed upon by the party.

Out of respect to President Harding, the elaborate program of entertainment previously arranged was abandoned. Instead the party will go quietly about its work of investigation, with only a few guides appointed by the Chamber of Commerce and the federal officials here.

Street Car Runs Wild, Fifteen Are Injured

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 7.—Fifteen persons were injured, two fatally, yesterday afternoon when a street car ran wild for six blocks, crashed into a building and overturned. Nearly all of the injured were hurt when they jumped from the rapidly moving trolley.

The car, filled with passengers, was left standing at the top of a hill by the crew when the current was out. It was turned on again, and the trolley car crashed down the steep incline and the crew shouted to the passengers to jump. All did so but one aged man, who was one of the two perhaps fatally hurt.
